

Christopher John Underwood

學歷：

B.Ed. University of Portsmouth. Teacher reference
RP92/46270

MA (Distinction), Maritime Archaeology, University of Southampton

現職：

International development office at the Nautical
Archaeology Society

經歷：

Public Archaeology
Post medieval ship archaeology
Archaeological Project Management
Diving Project Management

Publications：

School of Legal Studies, University of Wolverhampton. (Contributor) Maritime Archaeology Legislation Project. English Heritage 2004.

Pydyn. A. & Flatman. Joe. Ed. The Development of the Nautical Archaeology Society's Training Program and Diving with a Purpose. In: Collaboration, Communication & Involvement: Maritime Archaeology & Education in the 21st Century, Nicolaus Copernicus University. Toruń 2008.

The Nautical Archaeology Society. (Contributor) Underwater Archaeology: The NAS Guide to Principles and Practice, Second Edition. Blackwell. 2008.

School of Legal Studies, University of Wolverhampton. Underwood. C., Public Archaeology. In: Proceedings of the Shared Heritage Seminar 2008, English Heritage 2009.

Parham, D. Underwood, C. & Brown., R. The Archaeology of the Hanover Paquet, UK, English Heritage 2009.

Underwood., C. Excavation Planning and Logistics (HMS Swift 1770) In: Oxford Handbook of Maritime Archaeology, Oxford University Press (USA). (Forthcoming)

Professional experience: Current commitments

Programa de Arqueología
Subacuática (PROAS)
Instituto Nacional de
Antropología, Argentina

Honorary Researcher

As part of the Institute's underwater programme I am currently involved in the excavation and research associated with HMS Swift, a British sloop of war lost in 1770 in Puerto Deseado, Patagonia, Southern Argentina. The work includes survey, excavation, finds handling and post-excavation research. I also participate in the Programme's other projects in Peninsula Valdes and Monte Leon (Patagonia), as required.

Nautical Archaeology Society

International Development Consultant

Since leaving my full-time post as NAS' Project Director in 2005 I have continued to act as a consultant providing advice on a range of international issues aimed at increasing the use of NAS' training program and its range of public participation initiatives.

In association with this role I have also run NAS courses in Argentina, Chile, Colombia and the USA.

Flinders University (Australia)
Maritime Archaeology
Program

External examiner

Maritime archaeology programme